QHR'S SUCCESSFUL UNITED WAY DRIVE RESULTS IN MULTIPLE AWARDS

BRENTWOOD, Tenn.: – (March 13, 2008) – Through the generous participation of QHR's employees, the company conducted one of this year's most successful United Way fundraising campaigns in Williamson County. Because of this success, the company received the Top 25 Corporate Partner Award as well as the Circle of Caring Award at the 2007 United Way of Williamson County's Campaign Awards Celebration, which was held at the Martin Center of Senior Citizens Inc. on Feb. 27.

"The United Way of Williamson County is very proud of its partnership with QHR and thankful for all that they do to help strengthen our community," said 2007 Campaign Chair Craig Holland.

QHR ranked 18th among the top 25 campaigns and thus received the Top 25 Corporate Partner Award. The 25 top companies represented 67 percent of the total raised in this year's campaign.

The Circle of Caring Award is the most distinguished award in the campaign and is given to multiple companies each year. Companies are awarded points based on achievement and increased levels in the key areas of campaign organization and growth, level of corporate and employee giving and year-round commitment to United Way programs.

QHR is a Family of Brands that has provided consulting, management and education resources to hospitals and health systems for three decades. QHR Consulting Services was named the 12th largest healthcare management consulting firm in the U.S. QHR Management Services is the dominant market leader in hospital management resources with nearly 170 multi-year clients across the U.S. Each year, the QHR Learning Institute trains over 8,000 healthcare professionals to achieve business goals by improving their leadership and management capabilities.
